Public interest and non-profit policy

Vienna, January 2024

We are committed to follow a non-profit logic and pursue public interest. Although Eutrobian GmbH is registered as a limited liability company, it commits to act as a public interest non-profit organisation in its operations. This engagement is manifested by both the organisation's thematic work and economic activities.

Eutrobian pursues public interest by

- Engaging in advocacy, research, policy design and local actions to support inclusive urban processes
- Advising municipalities across Europe to create stronger cooperation with
- Helping public administrations across Europe learn from each other in the form of knowledge exchange processes
- Building civic cooperation networks to help civil society organisations become stronger, more competent and more resilient stakeholders in spatial transformation
- Supporting EU institutions and programmes in designing and implementing policies for inclusive and sustainable spatial transformation
- Undertaking voluntary activities for organisations with scarce resources but important undertakings towards the public interest
- Bringing resources to marginalised and underserved areas to strengthen their local economies and drive ecological transition

Eutrobian follows a non-profit logic by

- Reinvesting its revenues in salaries and other operational costs
- Not paying dividends or bonuses to its founders / owners
- Not engaging in speculative economic activities
- Aiming at balanced salaries defined in proportion with the work undertaken
- Maintaining a horizontal organisational and decision-making structure
- Offering professional development to all its employees and collaborators
